Evolutionary Anthropology Online Research Community

What we are:

We are a community of researchers investigating the evolutionary emergence of symbolic culture and its products: art, music, kinship and language.

Our intention is to draw on the resources of kin selection theory, costly signalling theory, reciprocal altruism and other components of modern Darwinian theory to address the fundamental issues of evolutionary anthropology.

What we offer:

- ❖ Access to other like-minded researchers.
- ❖ A weekly bulletin listing relevant articles from:
 - Nature
 - New Scientist
 - Science
 - Scientific American
 - National Geographic
 - And a range of linguistics and anthropology magazines
- ❖ A website to:
 - Publicise member's own research websites
 - Provide access to other relevant web resources
 - Encourage contact between members

What we charge:

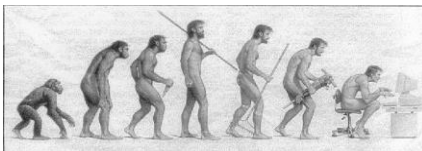

Nothing. Membership is free.

How to join:

Send an email to martin.edwardes@btopenworld.com giving your name and areas of interest.
